FARMINGTON, CT (May 23, 2022) — National Cooperative Purchasing Alliance (NCPA) members can now purchase WellSpark Health's tailored programs for diabetes prevention and chronic disease management, as well as their entire suite of employee wellbeing solutions.

WellSpark is a leading national wellbeing company exclusively dedicated to bringing a more life-dimensional and holistic approach to employee wellbeing that is not one-size-fits-all. WellSpark takes the time to make the connections between health, data, and personal experiences, see each person as the sum of all their experiences and build the trust needed to help them find their path toward a more enduring well.

"We're providing employees with an experience that empowers them to take action toward wellbeing in all aspects of their lives," said Roberta Wachtelhausen, President of WellSpark Health. "Every program is aligned to measurable outcomes from WellSpark's life-dimensional wellbeing assessment with individual or group health coaching available to encourage forward progress. People are unique so we customize our programming to meet the needs of individuals and groups which leads to lasting behavior change."

Through NCPA contracted vendors, the national government purchasing cooperative works to help ensure its members receive services of the highest quality at competitive prices by leveraging the purchasing power of more than 90,000 agencies nationwide.

"The NCPA purchasing agreement provides a mechanism for organizations to bring proven wellbeing solutions to their employees more quickly," said Andi Campbell, Chief Growth Officer of WellSpark Health. "Through this purchasing cooperative, the procurement process is streamlined and includes negotiated rates for our customized wellbeing solutions."

Currently, more than 600,000 individuals have access to WellSpark's resources to help support their overall wellbeing. WellSpark's programs connect with employees in the manner they prefer: live-streamed virtual classes, onsite classes at an employer's location, on-demand videos, podcasts, social and peer support, one-on-one coaching, and secure text and email messaging with coaches.
